

1. Per-subject collapse

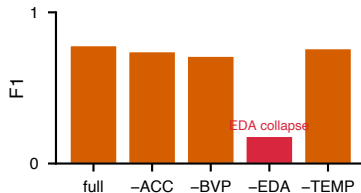

Aggregate accuracy hides catastrophic failure on a subset of subjects

(subject shift)

2. Modality shortcut

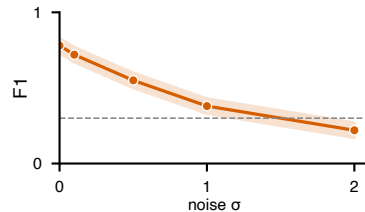

Removing one sensor at test time collapses prediction. Model leaned on one modality.

(modality shift)

3. Sensor degradation

Test-time noise drops F1 toward chance across architectures.

(corruption shift)

Three faces of one structural problem

distribution shift current fusion architectures cannot bridge

